TARRED AND FEATHERED.

Taken forcibly from a house in West Pike township, near Pittsburg, Pa., early yesterday, by 15 men, Mollie Ridge was stripped of clothing, covered with tar and feathers and thrown into Pike Run, while H. O. Wright, found in the home of the woman, was also stripped, beaten and thrown into the same stream yesterday. Wright and the woman appeared before Justice of the Peace McKean, at California, Pa., and made information against J. F. Obaries and Clifford Wright, brothers of the male victim, and Playford Wright, a cousin. The charge is aggravated assault and battery and malicious mischief. Warrants were issued, but late last night no arrests had been made. It is said the woman had been warned to leave the neighborhood a number of times, and when she refused the drastic action of yesterday resulted.

FARMER KILLS INTRUDER.

Richard Board a wealthy farmer of Roanoke county went to Salem, the county seat, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, and got Sheriff Hatcher out of bed to tell him that he (Board) had shot and killed a white man on his plantation shortly before midnight. Board heard somebody in his spring house, and arming himself with a revolver, went to investigate. The intruder ran and declined to halt when commanded to do so by Board. The latter fired several shots at the fleeing figure in the moonlight. The man fell, and when Board reached his side he was dead. A bullet had cut the jugular vein. There was nothing on the man's person to indicate his identity. Board was released on bail. The man evidently was a foreigner, about fifty years old.

CROW WAS THE THIEF.

A pet crow in the family of Alexander V. Anderson, at Rockport Ky., has been found to have been the thief which for several years has been proloining diamonds and articles of jewelry which the family had mislaid from time to time and for the theft of which several servants had been accused and discharged. The crow was seen to fly from the house with a diamond brooch in its mouth, and a search of his nest in a tree revealed a gold watch, two rings, two $10 bills, one $20 gold piece, a woman's "fai" and many other articles of more or less value. The loss of the articles had long bedeviled the members of the family.
